Oasis For Girls (O4g), a project of The Tides Center, a nonprofit organization, serves ages 10 – 20 in youth-driven free after-school and summer programs in San Francisco's culturally diverse South of Market (SoMa) neighborhood.

The vision of Oasis For Girls is to provide a safe place where girls and young women are inspired and empowered to become strong and creative leaders.

The mission of Oasis For Girls is to cultivate self-esteem in girls and young women ages 8 – 19 through arts, education and leadership development programs.

Oasis For Girls (O4g) celebrated its 5th Anniversary on May 20th and leadership transition at our center on Folsom Street with over 100 friends (old and new), family and most importantly, the amazing girls and young women of O4g. New Executive Director, Cynthia Taylor emceed and introduced the new Program Manager, Yoriko Yamamoto in addition to the new Advisory Board member Mary P. Kwan of Levi Strauss. The celebration embraced the new staff and honored the co-founders Jill Weinberg Pfeiffer and Ly Nguyen for their five-year directorships and valuable contribution to the organization. Three 2004 Future Fund scholarships in the amount of $1,000 each were awarded to college bound May Deng, Jennifer Diaz-Romero, and Jennifer Tse! The event also raised funds for the Future Fund College Scholarship.

A Note from the New Executive Director

Dear O4g community-

It is my pleasure to share our first quarterly newsletter with you! It has been a productive and successful year thus far for all the girls and young women of Oasis For Girls and there is much to report as our girls begin to cover their new text books, locate their lockers at middle & high schools, move into dorm rooms, sign up for O4g tutors and giggle over the pictures and good times of our summer together. In December 2003, together with the Advisory Board, co-founders/co-directors Jill W. Pfeiffer and Ly Nguyen welcomed me to Oasis For Girls as they transitioned out of their staff roles. Jill joined the Advisory Board and Ly departed the organization to pursue her creative writing career. The leadership transition is the realization of the organization's early strategic planning process where a term limit of five years was set for the Director(s) position(s). This practice would: 1) ensure fresh perspectives; 2) support the leadership development of a diverse range of women; 3) build on Oasis For Girls' mentorship model; and 4) expand the network of support for girls and women. We anticipate the day when we transition one of our girls to the Executive Director position! Please explore www.sfoasis.org and www.friscogirls.com for more information about the extraordinary programs and team at Oasis For Girls.

Regards,

Cynthia Taylor
Executive Director

Cynthia Taylor, Executive Director was appointed in December 2003 after having curated the nationally recognized multi-disciplinary art & job-training program, Young Artists at Work at Yerba Buena Center for the Arts since 1999, where she established an annual scholarship fund. A professional vocalist, Taylor is currently performing and recording with Charming Hostess. An experienced world traveler, she was raised in the foothills of the Santa Cruz Mountains with a dynamic bi-racial (African-American/Caucasian) and bi-coastal family of alternative educators and academics.

Yoriko Yamamoto, Program Manager, joined Oasis for Girls in March 2004. Before joining O4g, she worked as the School & Youth Programs Coordinator in Yerba Buena Center for the Arts for four years. Yamamoto also designs clothing and rings under the professional artist name a n t. She was born and raised in Tokyo, Japan and has been to several countries through exchange programs as a teenager.

Marisa Jahn, Summer 2004 Mural Arts-Instructor, later joined the O4g staff as the Arts Program Coordinator. Jahn is a conceptual artist interested in the relationship between mark-making and place-making, and has exhibited and presented work internationally. A Co-founder of Pond, a non-profit arts organization in San Francisco dedicated to experimental public art, Jahn was born in Dallas, TX to a family of mixed cultural and linguistic backgrounds (half-Ecuadorian, half-Chinese).

Anita Vasa, MFT Intern/ Counselor, is dedicated to healing others and balancing assimilation with cultural identity. Vasa loves poetry and writes in her spare time. A first generation Southeast-Asian Indian-American, Vasa joined Oasis for Girls in October 2003.

Hearts of Gold, Fists of Fury mural unveiled!

O4g and Clarion Alley Mural Project proudly unveiled Hearts of Gold Fists of Fury on August 14th to a crowd of 50+ supporters. The mural, embracing the secrets of the Shaolin and the simple strength of femininity, was developed and painted by eight young women ages 16 – 20 from O4g during an 8-week summer paid Arts Apprenticeship Program, the mural addresses the historical concerns of feminist leadership through contemporary pop iconography – a political adaptation of the 1976 Charlie's Angels film. Under the artistic guidance of Marisa Jahn, the mural features Rosa Parks, Mother Theresa, Emma Goldman, Phoolan Devi and "Every Woman." Teen muralists included Sierra Bloomer, Micaiah Caplong, Su Mei Mai, Sunum Mobin, Nancy Salcedo, Amber Sanchez, Jennifer Tse & Lily Zhen.
